

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

KEERUT SINGH,

Plaintiff,

v.

FEDERAL AVIATION
ADMINISTRATION,

Defendant.

CASE NO. C17-822 RAJ

ORDER

This matter comes before the Court on the parties' cross-motions for summary judgment. Dkt. ## 18, 29. For the reasons that follow, the Court GRANTS Defendant's motion for summary judgment and DENIES Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment.

I. BACKGROUND

The basic facts of this matter are not in dispute. See Dkt. # 29. Plaintiff requested records from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) that identify flights and reasons for allegedly low-altitude flight plans near and around a specific address in Mill Creek, Washington. Dkt. # 1 (Complaint) at 10. The FAA searched for records but was unable to identify any responsive results because the agency could not conduct searches based on specific locations. See Dkt. # 22 (Elkins Decl.) at ¶¶ 7-10.

1 Plaintiff exhausted his administrative appellate resources and therefore brought the 2 matter to this forum. Plaintiff seeks relief in the form of his requested records, as well as 3 an injunction preventing the agency from “relying on invalid practices and regulations
4 when dealing with future FOIA requests.” Dkt. # 1 (Complaint) at 7.

5 II. LEGAL STANDARD

6 Summary judgment is appropriate if there is no genuine dispute as to any material
7 fact and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ. P.
8 56(a). The moving party bears the initial burden of demonstrating the absence of a 9 genuine issue of material fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986).
10 Where the moving party will have the burden of proof at trial, it must affirmatively 11 demonstrate that no reasonable trier of fact could find other than for the moving party.
12 Soremekun v. Thrifty Payless, Inc., 509 F.3d 978, 984 (9th Cir. 2007). On an issue where 13 the nonmoving party will bear the burden of proof at trial, the moving party can prevail
14 merely by pointing out to the district court that there is an absence of evidence to support
15 the non-moving party’s case. Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 325. If the moving party meets 16 the initial burden, the opposing party must set forth specific facts showing that there is a 17 genuine issue of fact for trial in order to defeat the motion. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 18 Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 250 (1986). The court must view the evidence in the light most 19 favorable to the nonmoving party and draw all reasonable inferences in that party’s favor.
20 Reeves v. Sanderson Plumbing Prods., 530 U.S. 133, 150-51 (2000).

21 However, the court need not, and will not, “scour the record in search of a genuine 22 issue of triable fact.” Keenan v. Allan, 91 F.3d 1275, 1279 (9th Cir. 1996); see also, 23 White v. McDonnell-Douglas Corp., 904 F.2d 456, 458 (8th Cir. 1990) (the court need not 24 “speculate on which portion of the record the nonmoving party relies, nor is it obliged to 25 wade through and search the entire record for some specific facts that might support the 26 nonmoving party’s claim”). The opposing party must present significant and probative 27 evidence to support its claim or defense. Intel Corp. v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co.,

1 952 F.2d 1551, 1558 (9th Cir. 1991). Uncorroborated allegations and “self-serving
2 testimony” will not create a genuine issue of material fact. Villiarimo v. Aloha Island
3 Air, Inc., 281 F.3d 1054, 1061 (9th Cir. 2002); T.W. Elec. Serv. V. Pac Elec. Contractors
4 Ass’n, 809 F. 2d 626, 630 (9th Cir. 1987).

5 III. DISCUSSION

6 5 U.S.C. § 552 requires government agencies to disclose certain records to those 7 who request them. See 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(3)(A). If an agency improperly withholds 8 records, complainants may bring suit in federal court. See 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(B). An 9 agency satisfies its burden with regard to a records request if it can:

10 demonstrate that it has conducted a “search reasonably 11 calculated to uncover all relevant documents.” Further, the 12 issue to be resolved is not whether there might exist any other 13 documents possibly responsive to the request, but rather 14 whether the search for those documents was adequate. The 15 adequacy of the search, in turn, is judged by a standard of 16 reasonableness and depends, not surprisingly, upon the facts of 17 each case. In demonstrating the adequacy of the search, the 18 agency may rely upon reasonably detailed, nonconclusory
19 affidavits submitted in good faith.

20 Zemansky v. U.S. E.P.A., 767 F.2d 569, 571 (9th Cir. 1985) (citing Weisberg v. United 21 States Dept. of Justice, 745 F.2d 1476, 1485 (D.C. Cir. 1984)).

22 On January 10, 2017, Plaintiff requested records related to flight patterns
23 surrounding his home and neighborhood. Dkt. # 1 (Complaint) at 10. His requests 24 included a search for “[a]ny and all records of aircrafts flown in Snohomish County, WA
25 over address 13810 12th Dr. SE Mill Creek, WA 98012 and surrounding neighborhoods 26 from July 1, 2016 to present date.” Id. The balance of his requests related to the 27 aircrafts, flight patterns, and reasons for flights over “this location.” Id.

1 The FAA received Plaintiff’s records request. Dkt. # 20 (Taylor Decl.) at ¶ 7. The 2 FAA determined that its Air Traffic Organization (ATO) was best suited to respond to 3 Plaintiff’s requests. Id. at ¶ 8. Plaintiff’s address is within the Western Service Area
4 (WSA) of the ATO, and therefore this office maintains any potentially responsive 5 records. Id. at ¶ 9.

6 The WSA determined that only two facilities were capable of tracking flights in 7 the area of Plaintiff’s listed address: Seattle Terminal Radar Approach Control Facility
8 (“S46”) and Paine Field Airport Traffic Control Tower (“Paine Field”). Dkt. # 21 (Leal
9 Decl.) at ¶ 8. However, after reviewing the request, S46 determined that Paine Field 10 controlled the airspace—titled Class D Airspace—over Plaintiff’s address. Id. at ¶ 9.
11 Paine Field maintains voice data recordings, aircraft flight progress strips, and traffic
12 count sheets for flight operations under its authority. Dkt. # 22 (Elkins Decl.) at ¶ 6.
13 None of these records identify “aircraft operations over a specific address or 14 neighborhood.” Id. Because Paine Field managers could not search the records based on 15 a specific location, they were unable to return any responsive documents to Plaintiff, and 16 they explained as much to Plaintiff.

17 Plaintiff contends that the FAA is withholding documents because the agency was 18 responsible for producing any documents that may fall within the bounds of his request.
19 However, the FAA reasonably construed his request as one for records regarding certain 20 flights targeting him at or around his address for the purpose of harassment. Construing
21 his request to be location-based, the FAA concluded that it could not produce responsive
22 records because: (1) voice data records are not searchable by address or location, Dkt. #
23 22 (Elkins Decl.) at ¶ 7; (2) progress strips cannot identify aircraft based on a specific 24 location, id. at ¶ 8; (3) traffic count sheets “do not provide identifying information about 25 any aircraft or its respective flight path[,]” id. at ¶ 9; and (4) the radar tower “does not 26 display locations of residential addresses or neighborhoods, nor is it searchable by 27 address[,]” id. at ¶ 10. The Court finds that the FAA conducted a reasonable search of its

1 records based on the request's description; Plaintiff's wish, described in his briefing, that 2 the FAA shall search all records regarding all flights over the course of several dates is an 3 unreasonable expansion of his original request. Dkt. # 24 at 6; see also Marks v. U.S.
4 (Dep't of Justice), 578 F.2d 261, 263 (9th Cir. 1978) ("However, [the plaintiff] did not 5 request the FBI to search every file throughout all its field offices. Until this appeal, [the 6 plaintiff] appeared satisfied with a search of the agency's central files in Washington, 7 D.C. and its field office records in San Francisco. The suggestion that the FBI should 8 conduct an open-ended search throughout all its field offices is merely an afterthought.").

9 IV. CONCLUSION

10 For the foregoing reasons, the Court GRANTS Defendant's motion for summary
11 judgment (Dkt. # 18) and DENIES Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment (Dkt. # 29).
